

December 2007

The grapes from our 2007 harvest were Demeter certified and our wine labels will bear the Demeter trademark from March next year.

Four years ago, when we started the La Raia farming project, we chose to run the farm according to biodynamic agricultural principles: respect for the shared earth we live on besides quality and purity of our produce for our clients.

For two years now our Gavi and Barbera wines have been certified organic, complying with the regulations of the Ecocert certification agency.

Now we have the Demeter trademark, which certifies that our products are farmed using biodynamic agriculture. Demeter is globally synonymous with biodynamic agriculture. In Italy there aren't more than 300 certified farms, of which only 23 produce wine. La Raia is one of them.

Tom Dean e Caterina Rossi Cairo